

Anastassia E. Kossioni

DDS, PhD, MSc

Associate Professor

Division of Gerodontology Department of Prosthodontics, Dental School

National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Athens, Greece

Assoc. Professor Anastassia E. Kossioni graduated from the Dental School of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Greece in 1987. She received her MSc Degree in Gerodontology (Geriatric Dentistry) from the University of London in 1990 and completed her Doctorate in Dentistry at the University of Athens in 1994. She received a Postgraduate Certificate in “Open and Distance Learning” from the Hellenic Open University in 1999. From 1998 till 2003 she worked as Advisor in Open and Distance Learning and Tutor in the postgraduate course “Adult Education” at the Hellenic Open University. Since 2003 she has been working as Teaching and Research Staff in the Athens Dental School teaching Gerodontology and Removable Prosthodontics. She has authored more than 80 scientific articles, has given over 100 presentations at scientific meetings, and serves as member of the Editorial Board and reviewer for several scientific journals. She is a member of the Scientific Committee of the Attica Dental Association and has served in the Committee of International and European Affairs of the Hellenic Dental Association. She is Web-Editor and Head of the Education Committee of the European College of Gerodontology.

Her current research interests are: Gerodontology, Dental Education, Continuing Education, E-learning.