

Rafael BENOLIEL

BDS (Hons), LDS RCS Eng, Professor
Center for Orofacial Pain and Temporomandibular Disorders
Rutgers School of Dental Medicine
The State University of New Jersey
Newark, NJ, United States

Dr. Benoliel (DOB: March 23, 1959) is the current Director at the Center for Orofacial Pain and Temporomandibular Disorders at the Rutgers School of Dental Medicine. He also serves as the Associate Dean for Research.

Dr. Benoliel completed his dental training with honors and distinction at the University of London, in the United Kingdom. Following 2 years of training in Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery he moved to Israel, to the Dental Faculty at Hadassah - the Hebrew University. He completed the formal, state recognized, Oral Medicine training and subsequently concentrated on orofacial pain. His training in orofacial pain was under the mentorship of Dr Yair Sharav. In 1997-1998 he served as Research Associate at the Unit of Neuronal Gene Expression at the NIDCR, NIH, Bethesda under the tutorship of Dr Michael Iadarola. During 2003-2010 Dr. Benoliel served as Chair of the Department of Oral Medicine, in the Dental Faculty at Hadassah - Hebrew University. He joined the Dental School at Rutgers in June 2013.

Dr. Benoliel has published extensively on the subject of orofacial pain with over 120 papers and chapters. He co-edited the award winning textbook "Orofacial Pain and Headache' published in 2008 and now in its second edition. Dr Benoliel lectures extensively in national and international meetings. He serves on the editorial board of several leading journals and has served in many scientific committees including the Classification Committees of the International Headache Society and the Research Diagnostic Criteria for Temporomandibular Disorders.